The CIA Record

To the Editor—It doesn't seem to matter who heads up the Central Intelligence Agency these days.

Only a couple of years ago we had the ridiculous CIA report which started the fiasco at the Bay of Pigs. Now under Director McCone we have the report given on Jan. 28 to Sen. Fulbright by McCone himself. That afternoon McCone advised Sen. Fulbright that there did not appear to be any danger of the South Viet Nam government being overthrown. By that night Washington was informed that the South Viet Nam government had again been overthrown.

How many more such blunders does the head of such an important department have to make before he, himself, is disposed of?
